UNION PACIFIC'S #8444 (now #844, like its original number was in 1944) will be in Little Rock the weekend of October 26 and 27 and will pull a roundtrip excursion out of Little Rock to Bald Knob. It last came through here in March 1984 pulling the World's Fair Special. Member Ivan Avance was the engineer that day. (UP Photo)
UP #8444 coming into Poplar Bluff, Missouri, March 13, 1984, pulling the World’s Fair Special to New Orleans. Arkansas Club member Ivan Avance and his crew was the engineer that day between Poplar Bluff and Little Rock (Avance had the throttle from Newport to Little Rock). (Poplar Bluff’s Daily American Republic, March 14, 1984, used by permission)
I came from a railroad family. Since the year of 1900, four generations of Avances have worked on the Arkansas division of the Missouri Pacific Railroad in engine service. The Missouri Pacific and Union Pacific merged into one railroad (later to become Union Pacific only). I was working on my 44th year, as engineer on Amtrak’s Eagle (#21 and #22) from Little Rock, Arkansas to Texarkana, Texas. This was a good short hour-job, if you did not count all the time it took to make your week on this tri-weekly train. Overall. Three trips were made by rail and three trips on the freeway.

Sometime in February 1984 I heard that the steam engine, UP 8444 (it’s now number UP 844), would be pulling a World’s Fair Special train from Omaha to New Orleans. This train would use our Arkansas Division on one leg of its journey, March 13, 1984. Having been promoted to engineer in 1950 and working extra boards at that time, I was one of a few engineers who had ever operated steam as the engineer. Only four as I recall, R. Snodgrass, W. Roberson, T. Kerr and myself. My road foreman of engine at that time were Jack Spurr and Clyde Huffman. I talked to both and asked to be put on the crew to be used on the UP 8444. Crews for special trains are picked up by railroad officials. Ivan Avance, engineer, John Cooper fireman, Bill Russell conductor, Jack Spurr road foreman. These four were chosen for the crew.

This crew was deadheaded from Little Rock to Poplar Bluff, Missouri via highway van. We stayed overnight so the crew would be rested. When the train arrived I was asked which half of the trip I would like to operate the engine. I chose the last half, from Newport, Arkansas to Little Rock. So my fireman J. Cooper was allowed to run the 8444 from Poplar Bluff to Newport. Cab space was the reason for the split shift of me and the fireman. The regular UP engineer, fireman, utility man, road foreman and one of our crew was to be in the cab.
The first half of this trip I rode back in the passenger coaches. I met a lot of the dignitaries who were riding this special. I remember talking to Richard Allin. Mr. Allin is a long time rail passenger fan and still writes for the "Arkansas Democrat-Gazette."

When the train reached Newport, I came to the head end for my half of the trip. A large crowd met the train. We were there some time, as a Newport fire truck came to pump water into the huge tank of this monster. While this was being done, the maintenance crew (who traveled with this train) used the time to oil and grease the many moving parts of this huge engine.

I had the pleasure and thrill of running this big steam locomotive from Newport to North Little Rock. At that time regular UP engineer Bob Neely took over the throttle, on into Union Station in Little Rock.

FOOTNOTE

Engineer Ivan I. Avance, after 43 years, 3 months, retired June 15, 1984, when Amtrak’s Eagle #22 arrived in Little Rock. Avance says he will always remember the day he rode and operated the Big Beautiful Steam Engine UP 8444.

The UP 8444 has been re-numbered and is now UP 844. This steam engine will be in Little Rock October 25, 26, 27 and 28 1996 and can be seen and traveled on at that time. (Please order tickets on the order blank on the last page. The engine and train will also be on display in North Little Rock on Monday, October 28).

There is also a photo of this engine pulling the World’s Fair Special south of Little Rock in the Arkansas Railroad Club’s 1997 calendar, now for sale.

NAME

ADDRESS

CITY_________________________ STATE_____. ZIP_______
Twenty years before the Civil War the seaports of Georgia were greatly handicapped without a rail connection to the Gulf of Mexico. For any commercial intercourse with interior states via the Mississippi and Missouri rivers, steamships had to sail far south around the peninsula of Florida, then turn back north into the Gulf. A rail connection would save much time and expense.

In 1847, the state of Georgia granted a charter to the Savannah & Albany Railroad. In 1850, work was ready to begin when it was discovered that an earlier railroad, the Brunswick & Albany, already had a charter which guaranteed, for a period of 25 years from 1835, that no other railroad could build within 20 miles of it.

The B&A had a charter and a guarantee, but it had no money to build a railroad. The company agreed to compromise - it gave up the guarantee, and the state of Georgia bought $500,000 worth of its stock. The Brunswick & Albany began building northwest from Brunswick. The Savannah & Albany began laying rails southwest from Savannah, and the two roads crossed at Waycross, Georgia.

In spite of the name of Albany in its corporate title, the Savannah & Albany was headed for the Gulf of Mexico. There was very little speed in the construction process. In 1854, the Georgia legislature passed an act to change the name of the road to the Savannah, Albany & Gulf. By 1856, rails were laid to Screven, 69 miles from Savannah. At that time, for some reason, the Atlantic & Gulf Railroad was given a charter, and the state of Georgia bought $1 million worth of its stock. The U.S. Congress appropriated 400,000 acres of public land for the project.

This brought renewed action, and by April 1861 the road was in operation between Savannah and Thomasville, a distance of 200 miles. Work continued between Thomasville and Bainbridge, another 37 miles, as well as on a 38-mile branch south from DuPont, Georgia, to Live Oak, Florida, to connect with the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad.

In February 1861, the A&G announced that its track could not reach Bainbridge within the time specified by its charter. Edmund Ruffin had pulled the lanyard of the first gun fired in the Civil War, and an atmosphere of panic had quenched the zeal for construction. Difficulty was experienced in securing material, most of which was coming from England. A&G President, John Screven, said that extension trestle construction was an exhausting expense. During the year ending 31 July 1861 they had spent $922,839.43 for grading, crossties, and track laying. The bill for rails, chairs and spikes was $521,737.90.

Union army forces had cut off a large part of northern Mississippi. Huge amounts of rolling stock were abandoned by the Confederate army. Farther east, in regions still under Confederate control, this equipment was badly needed. Late in the winter of 1863 the last of this equipment was rescued, and the Atlantic & Gulf got five locomotives. The Confederate navy had taken 1,100 tons of A&G rails and fastenings to manufacture ship’s armor. During the war 60 miles of the A&G were destroyed.

Before the war most of the railroad construction was done by company owned slaves. After the slaves were freed, most of them refused to work. The A&G reported that the negro workers that were hired refused to work long enough to collect a month’s pay.
In May 1863, the Savannah, Albany & Gulf was consolidated with the Atlantic & Gulf, and the new company became the Atlantic & Gulf Railroad.

When the war was over, the company found itself with 60 miles of track destroyed, its terminal at Savannah was in ruins, and the equipment was damaged so as to require complete restoration. There also was a heavy floating debt, plus past due bond interest coupons, which the bondholders wanted paid. To maintain the very existence of the A&G there were no assets but $72,000 of 6 percent bonds of the state of Georgia. Fortunately the affairs were managed by men who fully appreciated the interests of the railroad.

Within one year the 60 miles of railroad were rebuilt, terminal and station depots were replaced, equipment was repaired or replaced, and in March 1866 trains were running again between Savannah and Thomasville. In 1867-1868 the road was extended to Bainbridge, and the branch was completed to Live Oak, Florida. In 1869, the A&G absorbed the South Georgia & Florida, which was building north from Thomasville. Rails reached 24 miles to Pelham at the end of 1869, to Camilla in 1870 and Albany in June 1870. This became known as the Albany Division.

The astute managers of the Atlantic & Gulf had the satisfaction of knowing that within five years, while the labor market was disorganized and the country was suffering an unusual financial depression, they had built and equipped 203 miles of railroad. This justly entitled them to take the first rank among railroad executives of the country.

President John Screven hoped his road would become a through line to Mobile, but it lay through poor country, the anticipated traffic never developed and the destination never was reached. On 1 January 1877, the A&G defaulted on interest due on its bonds. A receiver was appointed in April and a bill was filed in the U.S. Circuit Court for the sale of the road to satisfy the mortgage. The court ordered the sale at Savannah 4 November 1879. Henry Bradley Plant bought it for $300,000, subject to a mortgage of $2,713,500. He increased the capital stock to $2,000,000.

Plant combined the Atlantic & Gulf with the Charleston & Savannah and the Brunswick & Western to form the Savannah, Florida & Western. In April 1902, the SF&W was absorbed by the Atlantic Coast Line. On 1 July 1967, the ACL merged, along with the Seaboard Air Line, to form the Seaboard Coast Line, which became part of the Family Lines.

Thus it was that, from such humble beginnings and astute, dedicated management, many of our important roads began.
The next meeting of the Arkansas Railroad Club will be held on SUNDAY, AUGUST 11 at 2 p.m. at the Mercantile Bank on Main Street in North Little Rock, just across the river from Little Rock. The program will be given by John Jones showing a Canadian video. Refreshments will be served and the public is invited.

Future programs include: September 7, 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. - visit to Peter Smykla's Paperton Junction Southern RR near Pine Bluff (map on next page); October - possibly Ken Ziegenbein, showing super-8 movies of various railroad subjects.

Our Annual Christmas party will be held on Saturday, December 7 at the Ramada Inn in North Little Rock at 6 p.m. We'll all go through the buffet.

VARIOUS CLUB NEWS - BOB SANDAGE retired from the Little Rock & Western (O. H. Wagoner is now it's president). BERDENE MULLEN is doing fair. BILL CHURCH got to go home one day July 11 and had a full home-cooked meal. This was his Fourth of July celebration and he was thrilled. He is still in the VA Hospital at Fort Roots. KEN ZIEGENBEIN's mother in law died July 1 and was buried in Tifton, Georgia July 6. She had never flown and refused to , but her casket was flown to Atlanta July 2.

Peter Smykla reported on the AD&N's last day. The train left Crossett FOR Monticello on Saturday, June 29 at 8:30 a.m., and returned about 3:40 p.m., ending 80+ years of service. The railroad (headed by Russell Tedder, a club member) will pay all 40 of its employees regular salary plus health insurance FOR the next 6 years (New York Dock agreement), although he didn't have to do that. NICE GOING!! Some people are just nice.

REGULAR STEAM EXCURSIONS - Next month, I'll start putting in places around the state and surrounding states that have public excursions on railroads on a more or less regular basis. This will be from the book Steam Passenger Service Directory, published by Kalmbach Books and recently purchased by our club. A quick glance at trips around Arkansas showed several, but they still listed the Reader Railroad as having regular steam trips???

Turn right 100 feet past UP track as you cross Paperton Junction Southern track, shop and yard on right.

ARKANSAS RAIL NEWS

UP/SP MERGER LOCAL EFFECTS
Some possible effects of the verbally approved merger of the UP and SP (approved July 3 by the 3-member Surface Transportation Board) in Arkansas would be the abandoning of UP's branch line from Garden to near Camden in the next two years. Also, the interchange of the El Dorado branch with the Cotton Belt branch may see several million dollars worth of improvements. Camden will have only one generally unidirectional track (southbound). Chances are poor that Union Pacific will - in a timely manner - turn over a lease for the old Missouri Pacific depot to the city of Camden. The Depot Project is a noble effort, but wasn't handled in a business-like manner, with the loan for restoration solicited before a
The merger would create the nation’s largest railroad with 35,000 miles of track and 72,000 employees with annual revenue of $10.6 billion. Arkansas will lose 139 jobs in the long run because of this merger, many in Pine Bluff. Effective date of the merger is September 12, with full combining taking about two years, according to UP spokesman John Bromley. “Mergers, regardless of any pluses, mean the loss of competition,” according to Bill Pollard, a club member and active rail enthusiast. However, Bob Brave, retired director of the Little Rock Port Authority, said that having worked with Missouri Pacific before the Union Pacific took them over in 1982, he found Union Pacific much more accommodating. (Arkansas Democrat-Gazette, July 4, 1996, by Randy Tardy via Jonathan Royce)

WHY DID SP “FAIL?”
A rail newsgroup on the Internet has started a discussion about why Southern Pacific seemed to fall from grace the past few years, after being so highly rated in the mid 1960s. Among some of the reasons mentioned: 1) Failure to acquire the C&EI in the late 1950s, thereby giving MoPac the upper hand out of St. Louis; 2) UP’s acquisition of the Western Pacific, which devastated Overland Route tonnage; 3) Decline in perishable traffic from California; 4) The failed SPSF merger in the mid 1980s, which kept SP in an economic vacuum while it waited five years for a decision; 5) Decline in lumber traffic from Oregon. (Bob McKeen - any responses?)

COAL SHORTAGE OF 1919 - On December 6, 1919, 18 Rock Island passenger trains and 34 Missouri Pacific passenger trains were discontinued due to a shortage of coal across the country.

BRANSON SCENIC Rwy CONSIST
(Branson, Missouri) - The Branson Scenic Railway is having a good year of excursions southward into Arkansas from Branson along former Missouri Pacific’s White River Line (now the Missouri & Northern Arkansas). The railroad has added a dinner train on weekends, with food prepared by a caterer and served in a buffet car. BSR purchased an ex-CSX, B&O GP-30 to have additional power to help their ex-MARC, B&O F-9. Consist of the train: WESTPORT, buffet-lounge, ex-ACL, Budd, 1939; SILVER GARDEN, dome-coach, ex-CB&Q, Budd, 1952; SILVER ISLAND, dome lounge, ex-CB&Q, Budd; ex-Amtrak, Auto-Tram, ex-PRR ‘Henry Hudson’ buffet car; MOJAVE, coach, ex-ATSF. AMTRAK NEWS

28% CUT STILL POSSIBLE
At present, the Senate was working on restoring the 28% cut the House voted for Amtrak in 1997. Calls to your Congressmen are needed. A toll-free number to the Congressional Switchboard is 1-800-962-3524. Should these cuts remain (no other mode of transportation’s budget was cut in 1997), Amtrak would be forced to eliminate trains again. Amtrak officials have rated which trains will be eliminated first: The SUNSET LIMITED, TEXAS EAGLE, PIONEER, DESERT WIND. The COAST STARLIGHT would be cut to tri-weekly.

CRESCENT DAILY

The Crescent will be operated daily through the Olympics. This train now includes the new Viewliner sleeping cars, which feature at-seat video and audio entertainment, washroom facilities in each compartment, showers and two rows of windows.
